

Tartan

Tartan wall tiles are a testament to modern tile production. It is technically difficult to produce pieces packed with this much contrast. That said we love the texture play and contrasting glaze finish on each tile. Each Tartan wall tile is crossed with varying bands of texture. These raised bands connect together across the wall to assemble the pattern. In addition to the textural bands, glossy stripes follow suit to add another layer of contrast. We love the clever use of mixed texture and finish replacing colour to form the pattern. Tartan pairs easily together with other tiles for the floor.
